读后续写考场高分语料

【试题速览】

It was early autumn when the school organized a weekend camping trip to a nearby mountain forest. The air was crisp, the leaves were turning golden, and the students were buzzing with excitement. After weeks of studying and exams, everyone welcomed the chance to enjoy nature and relax outdoors.

Among the students were four close friends: Leo, Eric, Jason, and Alice. Though their personalities were quite different, they made a great team. Alice, the only girl in the group, was smart and well-prepared. She had brought along a compass, a map, and even a first-aid kit.

After arriving at the campsite, the students pitched their tents, gathered firewood, and helped prepare a simple meal. The campsite was surrounded by tall pine trees, and in the distance, a mountain stream could be heard. The teachers reminded everyone to stay within the marked area and never go off-trail alone.

After lunch, the students were allowed to explore in small groups. Leo's group decided to follow a trail leading up a hill. According to Alice, there was a small lookout point that offered a beautiful view of the valley.

As they walked, Jason kept running ahead, calling the others to hurry. "Let's see what's up there!" he shouted. Alice followed closely behind, holding the map. Leo walked at a steady pace, checking that no one fell behind. Eric lagged at the end, clearly nervous about being so deep in the forest.

The path became narrower as they climbed. Birds chirped in the trees, and dry leaves crunched under their shoes. The sunlight filtered through the branches above, casting dancing shadows on the ground. After about an hour, they reached the edge of a rocky area covered in leaves. The trail began to twist more than expected, and many landmarks they passed didn't match what was on the map.

"I think the viewpoint is just beyond this slope (斜坡)," Jason said, pointing excitedly.

Leo looked uncertain. "Let's be careful. It looks slippery."

But before anyone could stop him, Jason had already climbed ahead.

【思路点拨】

在正式进入语料分享之前，我们想先和大家好好聊一聊"如何读文本"。或许有人会觉得，读文本不就是看看文字、理解意思这么简单吗？但实际上，从那些考场高分作文中我们发现，很多看似基础的文本里，藏着大量被大家忽略的信息，而这些信息恰恰可能是让作文脱颖而出的关键。对照着原文本，笔者列举了一些读到这句时脑子里出现的问题，大家可以跟我们一起读一读，希望对大家的思路打开有所帮助。

It was early autumn（秋天这个时节有什么特点？在写作中是否可以设计相关的细节呢？） when the school organized a weekend camping trip （weekend 代表着什么？camping trip 一般有什么特点？）to a nearby mountain forest（forest 这个环境，一般有什么特点？有哪些形容词可以形容？一般会产生什么样的危险？） .The air was crisp, the leaves were turning golden, and the students were buzzing with excitement（秋天相关的表达，注意积累，以后写到相同季节的续写可以开发使用。"crisp"这个词用得很生动）. After weeks of studying and exams（几周的学习和考试，会给学生们带来什么样的体验和感受？会显得去 camping 更加兴奋？人一旦过度兴奋，就会发生什么？）, everyone welcomed the chance to enjoy nature and relax outdoors.（大家 enjoy nature 和 relax outdoors 的目的，最终达到了吗？这一类主题一般有什么可以升华的角度？）

Among the students were four close friends: Leo, Eric, Jason, and Alice（这四个人是什么关系？文章已经给出，是 close friends）. Though their personalities were quite different, they made a great team（这四个人性格迥乎不同，后续会因为性格产生分歧吗？）. Alice, the only girl in the group, was smart and well-prepared（文章为什么单独补充说明 Alice 的性格特点？她是不是在后续情节发展过程中，起到很重要的作用？）. She had brought along a compass, a map, and even a first-aid kit（Alice 带的这些东西，后续会起到什么作用呢？）.

After arriving at the campsite,（campsite，露营地。注意 site 出现的词汇组合）the students pitched their tents, gathered firewood, and helped prepare a simple meal（标准的动作链条，积累动词搭配）. The campsite was surrounded by tall pine trees, and in the distance, a mountain stream could be heard（露营地的特点是什么样的？为后续的情节发展铺垫了什么线索？）. The teachers reminded everyone to stay within the marked area and never go off-trail alone（老师嘱咐大家不要走出标记的范围区域，但大家真的会照做吗？大家此时此刻的情绪是什么样的？我们前面帮大家标注过，是过分兴奋的。兴奋是否会冲昏头脑呢？）.

After lunch, the students were allowed to explore in small groups（explore 这个词，在这里具备什么意义？）. Leo's group decided to follow a trail leading up a hill（Leo's group 指代什么？返回到我们前面标注的人名）. According to Alice, there was a small lookout point that offered a beautiful view of the valley（Alice 充当指挥棒）.

As they walked, Jason kept running ahead, calling the others to hurry（Jason 的行为，是兴奋过度的表现）. "Let's see what's up there!" he shouted（同样是兴奋过度）. Alice followed closely behind, holding the map（Alice 就比较冷静）. Leo walked at a steady pace, checking that no one fell behind（同样冷静+1）.Eric lagged at the end, clearly nervous about being so deep in the forest（Eric 比较紧张）.

The path became narrower as they climbed（地势开始险峻，小路变得狭窄）. Birds chirped in the trees, and dry leaves crunched under their shoes（拟声词为特色的环境描写，写作部分可以用上吗？大家思考一下）. The sunlight filtered through the branches above, casting dancing shadows on the ground（又一处环境描写，如何利用这个阳光？）. After about an hour, they reached the edge of a rocky area covered in leaves（走了一个小时，走入危险地带。说明是不是远离了老师划定的 marked area 了？）. The trail began to twist more than expected, and many landmarks they passed didn't match what was on the map（继续描述危险地带，发现所走的位置已经开始和地图路标不符合了，说明他们迷路了）.

"I think the viewpoint is just beyond this slope," Jason said, pointing excitedly(Jason 依旧兴奋过头，想去观景台）.

Leo looked uncertain. "Let's be careful. It looks slippery."（Leo 依旧是谨慎的那个人）

But before anyone could stop him, Jason had already climbed ahead.（Jason 依旧莽撞，爬了上去）

读完之后，可得到以下情节框架

Paragraph 1: Just as he reached the top of the slope, his foot slipped.

场景 1: Jason 滑倒以后，会产生什么样的连锁反应？（滑倒、受伤）

场景 2: 大家紧随着爬上去，拯救 Jason

场景 3: 大家如何拯救 Jason？（first aid，结合 Alice 带的东西）

Paragraph 2: With the first aid finished, they realized a new challenge: how to get back.

场景 1: 站在观景台，看到 XX（文本中的细节），两个冷静的人（Leo/Alice）想到了回去的方法。

场景 2: 大家开始搀扶着 Jason，慢慢回去，一路上遇到的挑战有什么？

场景 3：大家回到营地以后，老师和其他同学的反应是什么？

场景 4: 升华主旨+情节结尾

【高分句子】

Paragraph 1: Just as he reached the top of the slope, his foot slipped.

场景一：Jason 滑下来的场景(花式摔倒)

1. “Ouch!” Letting out a cry filled with pain and panic, Jason suddenly lost his footing and stumbled backward from the slope’s edge.
2. Unable to regain his balance, his body tilted awkwardly, and before anyone could react, he was already tumbling down the slope, rolling like a snowball out of control.
3. No sooner had the others stretched out their arms in an attempt to stop him than Jason had already crashed to the ground, his forearms scraping harshly against the jagged stones below.
4. Losing balance completely, Jason slid helplessly to the bottom of the slope, his backpack twisting around him. The poor boy cried out in a series of sharp, panicked wails, pleading for help from his friends above.
5. “Ah!” A frightened scream pierced the forest silence as Jason’s figure disappeared into the blur of branches and dry leaves. His body bounced against the uneven terrain before finally coming to a painful halt.
6. Straight down the hill he collapsed. Though the slope was covered in patches of thick grass, several fallen branches scratched his arms and legs, leaving thin red lines across his skin.
7. Sharp rocks dug into his forearms and shins. Worse still, a sudden twist of his ankle midway down the slope left him grimacing in agony. “Ouch!” Jason let out another sharp cry, gripping his swollen foot tightly as tears welled in his eyes.

小结摔倒的动作链条（供参考）：

【脚底打滑】Just as he reached the top of the slope, his foot slipped.

【失去平衡】His body leaned backward, arms flailing wildly as he tried to steady himself.

【滑倒】He toppled over the edge and began tumbling down the slope, rolling like a snowball.

【环境描写】Sharp rocks scratched his arms, and branches whipped against his legs as he fell.

【最后】 “Ahhh.” His body finally came to a stop in a patch of damp leaves and grass, breathing heavily, one hand clutching his ankle.

场景二：其他三人对此的反应（需贴合人物形象，比如 Leo 的冷静、Alice 的细心和 Eric 的胆小）

1. Scratches covered Jason’s legs, and some of the wounds were bleeding. The sight left everyone momentarily stunned. Eric’s face turned pale in an instant. “Good thing I brought the first-aid kit,” Alice said calmly, kneeling beside Jason. With practiced care, she gently cleaned the wounds, applied antiseptic, and wrapped them with clean bandages. Meanwhile, Leo stayed composed, crouching beside Eric to reassure him. “He’ll be alright,” Leo said in a steady voice. “We’ve got this.”
2. Our hearts sank the moment he fell, but there was no time to panic. Leo took a quick glance at Alice and Eric; without a word, they understood what to do. At that moment, Leo charged downhill with sharp focus and precise steps, managing to stop Jason just before he rolled into the rocks below.
3. Eric hesitantly stepped closer, his eyes widening as he saw Jason’s arms scraped and streaked with blood. The sight made his knees weak. Without waiting, Alice knelt down, quickly unzipping her first-aid kit. She pulled out gauze and antiseptic. Jason flinched from the sting, but Leo and Eric kept speaking to him, offering calm, steady words. Slowly, Jason clenched his teeth and braced himself, enduring the pain as Alice worked.
4. A wave of fear swept over the group. Alice was the first to act, rushing forward with her first-aid kit in hand.

Leo followed at his usual calm, measured pace, eyes scanning the slope for danger. Eric, however, was frozen in place, paralyzed by fear, unable to move a step.

5. "Stay right there! Don't move!" Leo called out, his voice firm but calm. After quickly scanning the terrain, he located the safest route and began climbing down, careful but without hesitation. Alice followed immediately, pulling out her first-aid kit as she moved. Left standing alone, Eric muttered, "I knew this forest was dangerous…"
6. While others were frozen, Leo quickly assessed the slope, choosing the safest way down before signaling to the others. "We need to stabilize his leg before we move him," Leo said, already removing his jacket to fold under Jason's ankle.
7. Eric stood motionless for a few seconds, his legs stiff as stone, his mind blank with fear. He opened his mouth to speak but no words came out, only a dry breath and wide, terrified eyes.

场景三：三人找到 Jason，查看其情况以及确定身处险境

1. After dragging Jason to a safer spot, Alice knelt down beside him, gently placing a hand on his injured leg as she prepared to give first aid. Always calm and well-prepared, she treated the wound with meticulous care, cleaning it, stopping the bleeding, and checking the mobility of his leg. Jason's knee was still sore, but the bleeding had slowed, and to everyone's relief, he could move it slightly.
2. Jason's knee was badly scraped and continued to bleed. As Alice unzipped her first-aid kit, the boys watched anxiously as she revealed bandages, a towel, and a handkerchief. Jason scrunched his face until it looked like a prune and muttered, "It hurts…" His pitiful voice made everyone chuckle softly, including Jason himself.
3. Jason sat on the leaf-covered ground, biting his lips and clenching his fists, pain etched across his face. Alice bent down, opened her first-aid kit, and began inspecting his injuries with focused eyes. Staring at Jason's swollen knee, she paused briefly, a flicker of doubt crossing her mind, until she remembered a rescue tip she had once read.
4. Suddenly, a brilliant idea flashed through Alice's mind. "Find me a sturdy stick—quick!" she urged Leo and Eric. As the two boys scrambled to help, Alice pulled out a bandage from her kit and began working swiftly. She cleaned the sprained area, gently aligned Jason's leg, and wrapped the bandage with practiced care to stabilize it. (这里 Alice 有点太专业了)
5. "It really hurts..." Jason muttered, his voice low and bitter. "Don't worry. Let me take a look," Alice said softly, her tone firm yet gentle. His elbows and knees were scraped from the rocky ground, but thankfully, there were no signs of serious injuries. After a careful check to confirm nothing was broken, Alice called the group together to make sure no one else was hurt. With Leo's help, she carefully washed Jason's wounds and wrapped them to prevent further bleeding.
6. "Thanks to the grass, it's manageable," Alice said with remarkable composure. She opened the first-aid kit, selected the necessary supplies, and began tending to the wounds with calm precision. Cleaning, disinfecting, bandaging, each step was executed as smoothly as if she were performing a live demonstration in a first-aid class. When the final bandage was tied off, Alice let out a quiet breath of relief.
7. The sky above had turned noticeably dimmer, as gray clouds gathered silently over the treetops. Jason tried to sit up but winced in pain. "Guys... I don't think I can walk far." That single sentence made everyone fall silent.

Paragraph 2: With the first aid finished, they realized a new challenge: how to get back.

场景五：结合人物的人设和现有道具，几人商量回去的方法

1. Alice kept checking the map, but the dense forest blocked all familiar landmarks. “This path looks wrong,” she muttered. “No, I think it was the other one,” Leo replied calmly. As tension rose, Eric raised a hand. “Shh… Listen.” Everyone fell silent. Only wind and rustling leaves answered back. （适当环境描写可以烘托氛围）
2. Dusk had fallen. The woods darkened, and the air turned cold. Alice’s map was no help now, but nothing around them matched. They had wandered off-trail.
3. “We can’t stay here all night,” Leo said. “It’ll get colder.” “I’ll mark the trees,” Alice said, tying a strip of cloth to a branch.
4. Though fear tugged at all of them, Leo’s steady voice kept them grounded. “We’ll stay close. No splitting up. Every step matters now.” Alice kept checking her compass every few minutes, her fingers cold but precise. She wouldn’t let herself panic.
5. Alice held the map up to the fading light, but the dense forest offered no clues—no stream, no lookout, no trail signs. The trees looked the same in every direction.
6. Realizing they were truly lost, Leo steadied his voice. “We need to move while we still have light.” He handed the flashlight to Eric. “You lead with this. Jason stays in the middle. Alice, check the compass.” Alice took it out, the needle steady. “East. Let’s go.”
7. Alice unfolded the map again, tracing their steps carefully, but dense trees blurred every landmark. She sighed, “We’re off the marked trail.”
8. The flashlight’s beam cut through the growing darkness, shadows dancing on the trees as they moved cautiously. Jason winced with every step but refused to slow them down. “We have to keep moving.”

秋日山野的环境描写，推动情节活烘托氛围

9. Golden maple leaves fluttered like flames against the bruised, bleeding sky. Their crisp edges caught the dying light as Alice carefully lifted the bandage, adding medicine to Jason’s wound. Around them, the forest fell into a suffocating silence.
10. Trapped in this desperate wilderness, an overwhelming wave of fear and frustration gnawed at their resolve, roaring inside them.
11. Beneath their feet, the carpet of fallen leaves muffled every step, turning their movements into ghostly whispers.
12. Branches groaned overhead, swaying with the mounting wind as if warning them to leave before nightfall.
13. The once-vibrant colors of autumn were muted now, faded beneath a gray blanket of gathering clouds.

场景六：想到办法，可以是找到标记，顺着溪流而下，找松树林等原文提到的线索

1. He and Leo carefully supported Jason, while Alice moved steadily ahead. Step by step, they finally found the mountain stream. With Alice’s compass and map in hand, they safely made their way back to camp.
2. Exhausted, they dragged their feet forward, relying on the compass to guide them. Pushing through the dense underbrush, they weaved through the tangled forest. Beads of sweat dotted their foreheads, but they sang quietly to lift their spirits.
3. Moving as silently as possible, a gentle gurgling caught their ears. The stream, flew just past the campsite! That discovery reignited everyone’s fading energy. Leo and Alice supported Jason’s arms to help him walk steadily. “Pine trees!” Jason exclaimed excitedly as the surroundings grew more familiar.

4. The sparkling sound of flowing water greeted them, filling them with hope and courage. “I have the compass and know the way! Let’s follow the river!” Alice shouted, invigorating the group.
5. Jason cracked jokes to lighten the mood while Eric carefully checked their marks to confirm the path. Then they heard the stream’s sound, spotted tall pine trees.
6. The steady murmur of a stream grew louder as they moved downhill. “Water always leads somewhere,” Leo said, leading the way. They decided to follow the mountain stream, trusting it would guide them toward the camp.

场景七：回到 campsite，与老师等的互动

1. After a long and tiring journey, they suddenly heard their teacher calling their names. The moment they realized they had found the way back, radiant smiles lit up their faces. They rushed forward, embracing the teacher and apologizing sincerely for breaking the rules.
2. Quickening their steps, they finally returned to camp, greeted by teachers who had been filled with worry. In that moment of reunion, they all reflected on their mistakes, creating an atmosphere of relief and harmony.
3. Before them lay the tidy campsite, where their teacher anxiously searched for them. While Jason was sent to the hospital for further care, the other three settled back into camp, quietly cherishing the remaining time outdoors.
4. Their teacher’s worried face softened into relief as he saw them safe and sound. “Thank goodness you’re all okay,” he said, voice trembling slightly. The students apologized earnestly, promising to follow the rules more carefully next time.
5. Eric, still a bit shaken, smiled weakly when reassured that they were now safe. Jason, though tired and sore, joked softly to ease the tension, making everyone smile.
6. As the campfire crackled, the group sat close together, grateful for the safety and warmth of the campsite.

场景八：主旨升华

1. Crystalline tears shimmered in their eyes, tears of gratitude, apology, and relief. Above all, they reflected four children who were calmer, wiser, and a little more grown-up than before.
2. “It was our friendship that pulled us through the danger. No matter what happens, we must always trust in teamwork!” Laughter echoed warmly around the tent.
3. At the heart of this experience lay a lifelong lesson: prepare well, stay calm, and face unexpected challenges with courage.
4. This experience taught them that true strength lies not in avoiding difficulties, but in facing them together.
5. This experience carved a deeper understanding into their young hearts: challenges may come without warning, but preparedness, friendship, and calm determination light the way forward.
6. The path through the forest mirrored their own journey toward maturity, sometimes difficult, often uncertain, but always made easier by those who walk beside us.

【高分作文】

可能是受限于文本本身，这两篇作文整体来说都比较简单。就语言风格来看，第一篇语言平实，简单直接，给人的感觉稍微有点“平”，缺少一些细节和情感的起伏。第二篇的语言相对活泼一点，故事里加了不少氛围的描写，比如环境带来的紧张感。这样让整个场景更有代入感，也让人物看起来更“活”了那么一丢丢。

其实严格来说，这两篇文章四个不同性格的人物都没太写出来，他们的独特个性和内心感受表现得不够明显，人物形象显得有些模糊。另外，文章的环境和动作描写也可以更细致一点。比如摔倒时的疼痛感、跌落的动态，或者找路时的紧张气氛，写得再生动一点，会让读者更有画面感，也更能感受到当时的压力和氛围。

Just as he reached the top of the slope, Jason’s foot slipped, and he tumbled straight down the hill. Thick grass softened most of the fall, but scattered branches left scratches on his legs and arms. The instant his three friends noticed his sudden disappearance, they rushed over. “Thanks to the grass, we can handle this,” Alice said calmly and steadily. She opened the first-aid kit, selected the essentials, and began treating his wounds: cleaning them, applying antiseptic, and wrapping the bandages with the practiced precision of a first-aid class. When the last strip of gauze was tied, Alice exhaled in relief; with Leo’s steady support, Jason stood up.

First-aid complete, they faced a new challenge: how to get back. The slope was too slippery to climb, especially for the injured Jason. As they racked their brains for a plan, the faint glint of a stream and the soft murmur of flowing water reached their ears, bringing fresh hope and courage. “I’ve got the compass, and I know the way to camp. Let’s follow the river!” Alice called, her voice sparking renewed energy. Encouraging one another, they linked hands and set off along the water’s edge. Alice’s plan proved sound; they returned safe and sound. Later, lying in their tent beneath the shining stars, a quiet, solid certainty settled in their hearts.

Just as Jason reached the top of the slope, his foot slipped. A thick carpet of leaves softened his fall, but the pain was sharp enough to keep him from standing. “Stay right there—don’t move!” Leo shouted. After a quick scan of the slope, Leo chose the safest path and descended without hesitation. Alice followed closely, already pulling the first-aid kit from her pack. “I told you the forest was dangerous,” Eric muttered, suddenly alone at the top. But when he looked up, Leo’s outstretched hand was there. Gratefully, Eric clasped it and was hauled to safety. Once reunited, the four friends turned their attention to Jason’s scraped legs. Alice cleaned and bandaged each wound with calm efficiency.

First-aid complete, they faced a new challenge: how to get back. The sun was sinking, and lengthening shadows among the branches spread both darkness and unease. Swallowing his own worry, Leo kept his voice steady and guided everyone down the slope. At the bottom they switched on their torchlights; Alice produced her compass and, after a quick check of the map, set an easterly course. Jason cracked jokes to lighten the mood while Eric watched for trail markers, ensuring they stayed on track. Soon the murmur of a stream joined their footsteps; tall pines appeared, and then, figures waving in the distance. They had made it. They ran to the teachers and recounted everything—not just the misadventure, but how teamwork had carried them home.
